Reasons Why Kids Need to Be in School

Time Management: Studies show being late to school can actually lead to students developing poor attendance habits & negative attitudes. It can also increase their stress. By helping children develop good morning routines that get them to school on time, kids will start the day off right while also learning valuable skill. Managing time effectively will be needed for college, for work and for life!

Being Prepared: Research shows students who attend school regularly keep up with assignments & homework & develop better ways to prepare for a quiz or exam. Learning how to be prepared can also help them stay organized and feel comfortable joining a club, team or other co-curricular activity.
